Bond Account

A Bond is a fixed income instrument that represnets a loan made by a lender (investor) to a borrower (issuer). The borrower (issuer) issues a bond that includes the terms of the loan, interest payments that will be made, and the time at which the loaned funds (bond principal) must be paid back (maturity date). For instance, the treasury bills, government and corporate bond.

Bond is the low risk investment type and has constant return. The interest payment (the coupon rate) is part of the return that bondholders earn for loaning their funds to the issuer. Average interest return are better than interest return of general deposit account which we can earn 0.3-0.5%. The government bond has somehow low risk character (low chance to loose principal amount) But if we invest in corporate bond, it is necessary to make sure that issuer (corporate) has strong financial status and are capable of repaying principle and interest to bondholder
